President at Pasadena.

Special to the GAZETTE.

PASADENA, April 24.—The President and party were treated to a beautiful floral display this morning, during the two hour drive through the principal streets of this "Crown of the Valley." They had a fine escort, composed of local military and civic organizations. The President and Mrs. Harrison and Mayor Luckens occupied a carriage decorated with acacia blossoms, and drawn by four horses wearing feathery plumes. The carriage which contained Secretary Rusk and Postmaster-General Wannamaker was ornamented with orange blossoms and red, white and yellow roses. All the other carriages displayed flags. Just before the President left the hotel, he was addressed by a curly headed, four-year old boy who expatiated on the fertility of the valley, and gave the President and party permission to take away any products that might suit their fancy. At a point on the drive on Marengo Avenue, the procession passed under a large arch composed principally of calla lilies, and having a base of rare tropical plants. A large portrait of the President was displayed at the keystone. About twenty-five hundred school children were congregated about this arch and showered the President and Mrs. Harrison with such a profusion of bouquets that those who followed passed over a veritable bed of flowers. Soon afterwards the procession passed through a gateway of flowers operated by two little girls. Short visits were subsequently made to the residence of Governor McKimham and Mayor Luckens. A chilly Scotch mist pervaded the atmosphere during the morning, but it was not sufficient to dampen the enthusiasm of the people, who cheered the President all along the line. Business was generally suspended and all the inhabitants of the city and surrounding country were on the streets. The drive was concluded at the railroad station at 11 o'clock, at which hour the Presidential train started on its way to Santa Barbara, where the party will spend the afternoon and evening.

Coxes Quiet.

By Associated Press.

SCOTTS DALE (Pa.), April 24.—Comparative quiet reigned in the coke region up to noon. Evictions are being made at several places but thus far there are no indications of trouble. The labor leaders are busily engaged giving out tents and are confident they will be able to take care of all evicted people. The Poles and Slavs are up in arms against the Socialists and talk of giving the district officers notice that unless Jonas and Delaher are sent away they will withdraw from the strike.

Not Transferable.

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 24.—Peter Peterson bought from a scalper at Sacramento, Cal., a ticket over the Southern Pacific railway to New Orleans. He was put off the train at Carlin, Nev., on the ground that the ticket, which was non-transferable, was issued in the name of E. Weinburg and that Weinburg's name had been erased and Peterson's substituted. Peterson brought suit here for $25,000 damages against the company. Judge Briggs to-day decided in favor of the company.

Seizable Socialists.

By Cable and Associated Press.

BERLIN, April 24.—The Socialist journal Vorwarts to-day expressed itself as being opposed to the workingmen of Germany engaging in a general strike under the existing condition of things. It says the strike would bring misery to workmen and it would destroy their organization.

The Rush in It.

Special to the GAZETTE.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 24.—The revenue cutter Richard Rush arrived from San Diego this morning and will participate in the excursion of President Harrison around the bay Tuesday next.

The Ruins at Rome.

By Cable and Associated Press.

ROME, April 24.—The explosion yesterday which caused such heavy damage and loss of life, created great alarm at the Vatican. All the windows of the Pope's library were broken and a number of precious relics destroyed. The stained glass windows of St. Peter's and St. Paul's are damaged and many relics destroyed. St. Paul's Church is closed while the damage is being repaired. The destruction wrought will be irreparable, as the valuable works of art which were destroyed cannot be replaced. Some time will elapse before the full amount of damage can be known.

It now transpires that the Pope was engaged in prayer when the explosion shook the Vatican building. A severe shock was felt and his holiness would have fallen had not one of his servants caught him. Investigation shows that the explosion was caused by the ignition of some shell capsules. A number of the injured have died. King Humbert, to-day, was calling at hospitals and visiting the wounded people. The King's sympathetic action, in conveying some of the wounded in his own carriage to the hospitals yesterday, and in visiting the wounded to-day, is highly appreciated by the populace of this city. Among those hurt by the accident was Billot, the French Ambassador, who was slightly injured by falling glass.

Without Authority.

Special to the GAZETTE.

SACRAMENTO, April 24.—A suit was commenced yesterday in the name of the District Attorney of the county against James McClatchy & Co., publishers of the Bee, for the recovery of money paid them under an order of the Board of Supervisors for publishing the delinquent tax list. The complaint alleges the contract was illegally let to them.

District Attorney Frank D. Ryan formally notified the County Clerk this morning to cancel the complaint and dismiss the action. He states the document was filed without his knowledge and before he had investigated the matter. Ryan says if the Board of Supervisors acted illegally, he will commence suit himself, but will not allow any one to use the county's name without authority.

Portugal Weakens.

By Cable and Associated Press.

LONDON, April 24.—One of the results of the action of the Portuguese officials in firing upon the British steamer Agues, and the seizure of the two cargo boats attached to the expedition, has become public by the action taken by the Portuguese cabinet to-day.

It appears that, in addition to the despatch of three British warships to the entrance of the Pungwe river as announced by Salisbury yesterday, the British Prime Minister forwarded an ultimatum to the Portuguese government declaring that unless immediate facilities were afforded British subjects to open the Pungwe river, in accordance with the provisions of the modus vivendi now existing between Great Britain and Portugal, the British government would resort to force to insure respect on the part of Portugal to her treaty engagement, and the result would be disastrous to Portuguese enterprise in that part of the world.

The Portuguese cabinet to-day, under pressure of Salisbury's ultimatum, gave consent to the free passage of the Pungwe river.

Tupper Talks to Tyler.

By Cable and Associated Press.

LONDON, April 24.—Sir Charles Tupper, Canadian High Commissioner of London, uses two columns of the Times to-day in reply to Tyler, President of the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada, who answered Tupper's comments on the policy of the Grand Trunk. Tupper says he would have failed in his duty to Canada and to England if he had not exposed the attempt of the Grand Trunk to support the party in Canada whose policy during recent elections was annexation. Tupper adds he bitterly regrets the assistance given the Grand Trunk in order to enable it to obtain its connection with Chicago, as it evidently made the road an American institution.

Free Schools.

By Cable and Associated Press.

LONDON, April 24.—A free education bill has been drafted and will probably be introduced before the Whitsun recess. It provides that fees shall be abolished in elementary schools.

The Standard strongly attacks free education. It says: "Free education may not abolish the church schools forthwith, but the process will only be delayed. It will impose a heavy and uncalled for burden upon the nation. The period of surpluses cannot continue indefinitely. We are within the mark in saying the adoption of free education will be equivalent to a permanent addition of three half pence to the income tax."

Jack the Ripper.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 24.—Last night a man and woman registered at a cheap hotel here as man and wife. They immediately retired, and as nothing was seen of them this morning the door of the room was broken in. On the bed lay the woman covered with blood. She had been dead for hours. Her abdomen was ripped open with a dull broken table knife that lay in her blood. The viscera had been cut and from appearance a part was missing. The man had escaped. A very imperfect description of him was given the police and they went to work on it with utmost secrecy and speed. They think he is Jack the Ripper.

The Coroner made a hasty examination of the body and found the woman had been dead a number of hours. He removed the clothes from her face and neck and revealed a ghastly visage. The tongue was out and swollen, the eyes bulged from their sockets and the nose flattened to the face and about the neck was a circle of congealed blood. The appearance of the face convinced the Coroner that the woman had first been strangled and then cut. On turning over the body it was found the murderer had left his mark. The broken end of the knife had been used to make a large cross on the base of the spine. The proprietor, Jennings, and assistant housekeeper, Mary Munton, told the police all they knew about the case. The housekeeper said the murdered woman's companion was decidedly German in appearance but she could not tell from his appearance how long he had been in this country. She said he resembled a seafaring man. Mary said the woman was a well known character around the neighborhood, but no one seemed to know her or where she lived. The police are scouring the city and vessels around the docks for the murderer.

Manufacture of Sugar.

The report of the Society of Agriculture, contains the following on beet sugar, and the cost of manufacturing the same, which may prove interesting reading:
The question is often asked if beet sugar cannot be made in a small way so that six or seven farmers could club together, put up a cheap apparatus and produce their own sugar. On account of the elaborateness of the process and the costly nature of the machinery which is necessary to produce beet sugar even in a small way, it is not believed that it could be profitably made in the way indicated.

The cost of manufacture depends on as many factors as that of beet growing. Chief among these are transportation, fuel, weather and labor. Perhaps the most important of these factors is the price of fuel. In some localities coal can be had for $1.25 cents per ton; in others it may reach as high as $10 per ton.

The manufacture of beet sugar is still so much of an experiment in this country as to render any exact amount of its cost impossible. To show what it may be, with large experience and the highest skill and management, I give the mean cost of manufacture in 113 German factories from data of the campaign of 1889-'90.

Mean capital invested in each factory, $193,400
Total receipts for sugar, molasses and pulps per ton of beets, $11.10
Mean cost of beets per ton of 2,240 pounds, $4.90
Salaries per ton of beets, .73
Labor per ton of beets, .73
Interest on investment per ton, .30
Coal per ton of beets, .03
Miscellaneous expenses per ton, .29
Total expense of manufacture per ton, 7.84
Profit per ton of beets, $3.26

The mean net profit for each factory was $34,240. The price paid for beets, however, is in most cases fictitious, the beet-growers owning the factory, and preferring to share in the general profits rather than charge a high price for the beets. First-class beets rarely sell for less than $5.25 per ton. The Western Beet Sugar company of Watsonville, California, stated that in its first campaign, 1889-90, the cost of making sugar amounted to $80.80 per ton. At the present time it appears that with the best machinery and most economical processes, beet sugar can be made in this country at a cost of from 4 to 5 cents per pound.

A CHRISTIAN child has been killed in the Jewish quarter of Corfu, one of the Ionian Islands, and great excitement exists. The people believe that the child was killed as a Passover sacrifice. The incident illustrates the vitality of ancient prejudice. The absurd idea of the sacrifice of Christian children by the Jews is a relic of medieval superstition and persecution, which evidently still survives in such out-of-the-world places as Corfu. At one time it was only necessary to deposit a dead Christian child of the Jewish quarter of a European town to start an outbreak of persecution and plunder. In the present instance a child has probably been the victim of some accident and old prejudice revives. In China it is the Christians who are charged with these monstrous crimes. They are supposed to eat the brains of the innocents.

STATISTICS show that in 1890 the United States beat the record of iron and steel production. Great Britain takes second place in the race she has hitherto led. This American supremacy is due in no small part to the recent development of iron and steel making in the South. That section of the Union, under the encouragement of the Republican system of protecting American industries, is becoming an agricultural community, and wealth follows diversified industry. The Southern people are beginning lately to think less of politics and more of business, and they cannot fail to see that free-trade Democracy threatens the most promising of their industries.

ARCTIC EXPLORATIONS.

The Latest Schemes for Reaching the North Pole.

Ships, Balloons and Dog-Sleds to Be Employed in the Efforts to Solve That Profoundest of Mysteries.

Find something so difficult of accomplishment as to be deemed impossible, and immediately you discover that there are plenty of daring spirits ready to risk life and limb in an attempt to prove that it is not impossible. For more than two hundred years, says the Boston Transcript, the north pole has been the Mecca of fortune-hunters. Disasters upon disasters have not dismayed the scientific enthusiasts; and none next Dr. Frithy, of Nansen, an intrepid Norwegian explorer, who has already won his spurs in this field by his daring journey across Greenland, will start from Europe in a small vessel built expressly for the purpose and so constructed as to be able to withstand the nippings of the ice floes which sent the Jeannette to the bottom. The vessel will be provisioned for five years and will carry strong small boats, sleds, dogs, etc., for use in case of accident to the ship. Nansen believes that currents exist in that region that have an easterly tendency as far as the longitude of the Siberian rivers, where he expects to find a northerly current which will bear him north to within the vicinity of the pole. He bases his opinion of an easterly current or currents on the fact that certain articles left on the wreck of the Jeannette in the opposite part of the polar sea drifted in three years to the coast of Greenland. So he will take his ship to the place where the Jeannette went down, and allow it to drift with the ice floes until the northern currents are reached. In this way he will not have to stem currents or resist ice floes, but will allow them to carry him to his destination. Northern currents, he thinks, must be formed by the emptying of the Siberian rivers into the Polar sea.

Another scheme to reach the north pole is that of two enthusiastic young Frenchmen, who propose to drift over the pole in a specially constructed balloon. This air ship will be strongly constructed of two thicknesses of China silk, and will have a small interior balloon, the object of which is to provide that the larger envelop shall always be inflated. Four subsidiary balloons and sixteen very small balloons will be attached to the large one, both to afford auxiliary gas and for scientific use in determining the direction of air currents at the pole. The big balloon will have a capacity of forty-five thousand cubic feet of hydrogen gas and is estimated to have a carrying capacity of more than eight thousand pounds. The car is of novel construction and looks like a small house. It is to be made of wicker coated with thin plates of steel and will be water-tight. The equipment will be besides the five men and a number of dogs, provisions for eighty days, a sleigh, an unsinkable canoe, scientific instruments, etc. According to the programme they will leave Spitzbergen in the summer of 1892, sometime when a wind is found blowing directly over the pole. They expect to be in the air ten days and to land in Alaska or western Asia. The scheme is not indorsed by the French aeronautical societies.

A plan of polar research that is likely to be of more practical value than either of the above-mentioned expeditions, which are only to satisfy scientific curiosity, is the scheme developed in Australia for the exploration of the Antarctic region. Since the celebrated expedition of Sir James Ross in 1839-43 in the Erebus and Terror, no attempt has been made to investigate this region. However, in the fall of the present year an expedition will set out under the command of Baron Nordenskjold, one of the most experienced polar travelers living, to explore the Antarctic district, and hopes are entertained in Australia that new fisheries for whales, seals, cod, etc., will be found, that will prove of intrinsic value to the colony. Incidentally Baron Nordenskjold may determine whether the Antarctic continent is really a continent or an archipelago; ascertain the nature of the fossil plants, animals, etc. It would seem that this Antarctic region offered a much broader and better field for exploration than the Arctic. Ross penetrated to close on to eighty degrees south.

Natural Gas in England. The Middlesbrough correspondent of the Newcastle (Eng.) Chronicle writes to his paper regarding the find of the gas that it was made at a depth of about eight hundred feet. At seven hundred and sixty feet whiteness was struck and salt is generally found at from twenty to twenty-five feet below whiteness. At eight hundred and forty feet salt was struck at this borehole. Continuing to bore through the salt, a blue limestone was struck, and then the present gas. Many people in the Middlesbrough district have expressed the opinion that it is simply the usual marsh gas, which is always to be found near salt, but which is of little or no use. It is needless to dilate on the effect that such a discovery as is believed by some to have been made this week would have on the salt trade and other industries in South Durham—natural gas as a fuel would revolutionize the manufactures, and that in a neighbor already favored naturally by enormous salt deposits, proved over "practically twelve square miles," near to fuel and close to navigable waters.

The Word "Jew." "We are Jews," said the rabbi, to a New York Sun man, "and it is right to call us Jews, but some of us do not like the word, because it has been used in Europe for ages as a term of contempt or derision. People often seem to be hissing when they say of a man, 'he is a Jew.' In English books, as well as in German books, the word is often used scornfully. In most European cities the Jews were compelled to live by themselves in the meanest quarters, and this also caused them to be spoken of sneeringly. We are called Jews because our ancient country was Judea, but we are of the Hebrew race, and some of us would rather be called Hebrews than Jews. But we will yet make the word Jew shine in the United States."

Statistics show that in 1890 the United States beat the record of iron and steel production. Great Britain takes second place in the race she has hitherto led. This American supremacy is due in no small part to the recent development of iron and steel making in the South. That section of the Union, under the encouragement of the Republican system of protecting American industries, is becoming an agricultural community, and wealth follows diversified industry. The Southern people are beginning lately to think less of politics and more of business, and they cannot fail to see that free-trade Democracy threatens the most promising of their industries.

The Rev. Dr. Restler (reformed young man) - Do you speculate in stocks any more? No, Y. I do not, not at all, but I play poker some. Dr. Restler - Mustn't do it, my boy; that's but a milder form of gambling. (Cigars, tobacco and cigarettes at C. A. Thurston's stationery store.)

Margie Zane - Have you read any of these "Talleyrand Memoirs" in the Century? Addie Page - Yes; but I believe they're made up. No man living can remember as far back as he claims to be able to. Why, he writes about Benedict Arnold, and says he knew Alexander Hamilton. Richard Herz keeps the latest designs in jewelry.

It was Talleyrand who said: In order to arrive we must start. Now do you suppose if John Smith had said anything so trite and commonplace as that it would have been handed down to succeeding generations as a maxim by some wise and original? Piles Can Be Cured.

Richard Bennett, Westfield, N. Y., writes: "For thirty-two years I suffered from piles, both internal and external, with all their attendant agonies, and like many others suffered from hemorrhoids. All those thirty-two years I had to cramp myself to pay doctors and druggists for stuff that was doing me little or no good. Finally I was told by one who had had the same complaint, but had been cured by Dr. King's New Discovery, that I should try that. I did so, and began to improve, and for the past two years I have had no inconvenience from that terrible ailment."

A Safe Investment.

"RED FRANK WHEELER."

A Convivial Pioneer, Who Resolved to Quit Drinking Whisky and Kept His Pledge. The subject of this sketch needs no introduction to the old pioneers of Nevada, for he was known as widely as any Governor the State ever had, and probably, by generous deeds, endeared himself to a larger circle of hardy toilers than ever did any of our millionaires. He had his faults, for he was convivial, and yet his reformation from whisky was complete and was so unique that it will bear recounting. Frank came from the northern mines of California to Nevada and was among the first to reach the Reese river mining section. There he tried prospecting for a while with indifferent success, and then milling with no better luck. Then for a while in Austin he was deputy "Nasby" under old Colonel Allen, but the occupation he soon found was too confining and he quit it to become manager of

KING & O'LEARY'S SALOON.

Here his desires had full swing, and he could indulge in his favorite pastime of playing poker without meeting a scowl when he faced his employer, for that was part of the business. But he never neglected his duties and when off shift aided his employer O'Leary in the store-room back of the saloon in making "Oregon cider" and reducing the liquors. This opened Frank's eyes to the adulterations practiced in "fixing" the whisky, and he resolved to reform, and upon making the resolve he wrote to his old mining "pard" named Rhodolimer the following letter, which the latter gave from memory to this writer, and the substance of it is here reproduced because it tells the story in a style that marks the manner of the man.

After the usual introduction, Frank said: "I have a surprise in store for you which will seem so incredible that I fear you will dismiss it by saying I don't mean it. I have resolved at this late day in life to follow the good advice you gave me 'many a time and oft' and which went unheeded through pure carelessness on my part. It is really startling and hence I have prepared you for it by this slight introduction. Know then, my dear old boy, that your wayward friend, over whom you have so many times shed tears of honest grief for his persistent indulgence in the cup that inebriates, know, I say, that I have resolved to STOP DRINKING WHISKY."

I fear that you will doubt my resolution and, therefore, I must again assure you that I am in deep earnest and mean what I say. Never again will I permit a drop of the pernicious liquid to trickle down my gullet. Never, on my sacred honor, do I swear it. And I would have all my friends go and do likewise, and for the sake of the ties that bind us together as old 'pards,' I sincerely trust you will follow my example. Promise me this and I will be happy. It will be easy for you to take the pledge. Nothing will ever tempt you to break it. You will have no desire when once your eyes are opened as mine have been. In fact you will admit as I do that any man is a d-d fool to drink whisky when he can get good brandy. From now on I shall drink brandy. He kept his pledge to the end of his life, and although his last days were spent in affluence and luxury even, through a pointer got from Sam Jones, by which he made $50,000 in Belcher's mine, yet he never broke his pledge, and the last act of his life was to take a sip of brandy.

"SHENANDOAH."

Bronson Howard's Great Play at McKiesick's Opera House.

Bronson Howard's "Shenandoah," which has met with such pronounced success wherever presented, will be produced at Piper's Opera House next Saturday night. It will be presented with its superb cast of players, and in the same elaborate manner that characterized its success all over the English speaking world. The company carry their own scenery, which is entirely new and magnificent; also their own horse, which plays an important part in picturing Sheridan's famous ride through the valley of the Shenandoah.

The box sheet is rapidly filling up and if you do not get your seats before to-morrow night you are quite likely not to see this magnificent drama presented.

Truckee News.

The Truckee Republican of yesterday says:

The material has arrived for an iron bridge across the Truckee river at camp 24, to be erected by the railroad company in place of the present wooden structure.

Moody started in to break the Tahoe road this week. A wagon went nearly up to the Toll house. Sand will be sprinkled along the road the rest of the week. Dirt attracts the heat and melts the snow. The road will be open for travel by May 10th.

Perhaps an Error.

The Central Nevada of yesterday says: "While gardening last Friday Mrs. Walter Davis stepped on the sharp teeth of the rake, which entered the sole of the foot, making a painful wound."

Women are generally regarded as angels in disguise, but the GAZETTE mildly inquires, what kind have you out there? But who knows where the soul is located?

LANDER COUNTY.

Where the Products Are Sold and Silver, Wool and Grapes. The Central Nevada of yesterday contains the following items of interest: A bar of gold bullion came in from Pittsburg yesterday.

The McCoy artesian well has been completed and is two hundred feet deep.

A Boston wool buyer has purchased the Martin wool crop. Men were loading 150 heavy bales into the cars Monday.

The Reveille is informed by the sheep shearers that the fleece of flocks in that vicinity is heavier than it has been for years.

The Starr & Grove mill, Lewis, is to be repaired by the B. M. S. M. Co., so as to be ready to reduce ore about June 1st.

Grape vines taken from the Lewis vineyard are being transplanted on the Blossom ranch. The Lewis crop, this year, is very promising. Strawberry vines are looking fine.

The Humboldt river is very high for this early in the spring. Those well posted claim there will be more water this year than last, although the river bottoms were flooded in May, 1890.

Flanagan's sheep averaged eight pounds of wool. This record cannot be exceeded. -Reno Gazette.

Frank Martin's band averaged ten pounds, which beats the record.

BOLD HORSE THIEVES.

Two Horses Stolen From a Stable in Virginia City.

The Virginia Chronicle of last evening mentions the presence of horse thieves on the Constock in the following. It says:

Last night between 10 and 11 o'clock two horses—a roan and a buckskin—with saddles and bridles were stolen from Tom Luke's livery stable on South C street.

The thieves were evidently familiar with the premises. After effecting an entrance, they repaired to the upper floor and secured two saddles and bridles, the ones usually used for the horses being stolen, one of the bridles with a straight bit and the other a curb—used on the roan which is hard to hold.

Suspicion is directed toward two young men who live on the Divide, as it was ascertained from boys who reside in the vicinity that they skipped last night, and search failed to find them at their homes this morning, nor could any information regarding their movements be obtained.

The suspected parties are between 18 and 19 years old. One of them formerly worked for Luke and was familiar with the stable, and has been in a like scrape before.

CHAS. W. WELBY.

The Well-Known Firm of Welby & Judge is Dissolved.

It will be seen by an advertisement in another column that the well-known wholesale butcher firm of Welby & Judge, of San Francisco has been dissolved by mutual consent, and that hereafter Charles W. Welby will carry on alone the business of buying cattle and selling dressed beef and slaughtering cattle on commission as heretofore. Mr. Welby is well-known to the retail butchers of San Francisco and its vicinity, and also favorably known by cattle raisers at all points of the Coast who have shipped cattle to the old firm on commission and who have always been satisfied with the returns. The GAZETTE can recommend Mr. Welby, from long acquaintance, as a man who will always deal justly with the one who deals with him, and give the best returns obtainable for all consignments entrusted to him.

NEWS FROM NYE.

Yet Six Days Afar by the Nearest Post.

The Belmont Courier of the 18th inst. contains the following items: M. W. Corcoran and J. C. McMonigal have gone to the new gold field in southern Nye county.

M. W. Esser has received a number of young trees from the Reno nursery, which he has planted in his garden in Belmont.

Prospectors and miners are rushing to southern Nye county from all directions. It is to be hoped that the reports received from the new gold field have not been exaggerated.

New Saw-mills.

The Truckee Republican says: We understand that Messrs. McKay & Stewart are to put up a mill in the woods near Union Mills where they have quite a large body of saw timber.

It is also reported that Kidder Bros. of Salt Lake City are to build a mill near Bronco. It is reported that they have purchased the timber land of A. M. Wicks. It is also reported that another mill is to be erected on the Henness Pass road, not far from Sardi's valley.

Tried to Escape.

Yesterday morning a trusty named Scotty, sent from Storey county for robbery, attempted to escape. He was acting as a trusty, and bidding good bye to his guard started out through the sagebrush. Guard Reed fired two shots. Word was sent to the Warden, who started out with Sheriff Ulrich and soon had their man. He thus loses his credits and will have to serve his full term, three years.

Deep Creek Mines.

The Salt Lake Tribune of the 22d inst. says: Following is the assay and analysis of 14,602 pounds of ore brought in by Gilson from the Buckhorn mine, Dagway district: Lead, 3.3 per cent; silver, 219 ounces; gold, 3.062 ounces; silica, 40.1 per cent; iron, 3 per cent; zinc, 4 per cent; and lime, 10 per cent. Value of gold, $63.30.

High Water.

The river is rippling along at full flood now, and over the rocky places the waves dash high. The water is muddy and dark and is well loaded with silt and slickens, mud and "sich," and as "Yank" used to say of the Rubicon springs, it contains a variety of "gredients."

An Old Game.

A gold brick swindle was played on George C. Merit Wins.

We desire to say to our citizens, that for some time we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklin's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merit. Wm. Finner's drugstore.

WORTH-UNTOLD MILLIONS.
New Parasite Which is Saving the Orange Groves of California.
"They are not much to look at, but they do their work in good style." Alexander Crow, entomologist of the state board of horticulture, was looking very closely and with evident satisfaction at what appeared to be the naked eye as minute specks of dust on a piece of glass as he made the remark, and passed the glass to a San Francisco Examiner reporter.

"What is it?"
"Let me put this slide under the microscope and then see for yourself." Under the glass the tiny speck, hardly visible to the naked eye, became a well developed fly, about as large as a horsefly, with two pairs of wings, three pairs of legs and a pair of antennae. The wings were covered with long, bristly hairs, and the legs terminated each with a pair of pincer-like claws. If small, it was evident that the little fellow was amply prepared to do battle for life.

"It's a fly, sure, but what is it good for?"
"Next to the vedolia, it is, perhaps, the most valuable insect known in California," continued Mr. Crow. "This little fly, for which we have yet no name, but which belongs to the Chalcid family, is the natural foe of what is known as the yellow or San Gabriel scale. Each female will lay probably from fifty to one hundred eggs, and these eggs develop larvae that feed upon the scale insect. The female is furnished with a sharp stinger-like ovipositor. This she thrusts under a scale insect, and deposits an egg, which hatches into a voracious little grub that, as soon as hatched, proceeds to consume its adopted parent. Under the skin of the scale insect it passes through its metamorphoses, when it eats its way out a fully developed fly, prepared to lay eggs for another generation of yellow scale eaters."

"It is such a little speck. How did you ever discover it?"
"The orange orchards in San Gabriel valley were badly covered with the yellow scale. The foliage was sparse and the fruit almost valueless. Before the fruit could be marketed the growers had to put it in long water troughs and scrub the scale off with brooms, and then it was 'not clean.' So destructive was the pest, in fact, that many orchardists talked of giving up the business. Mr. Cogswell at Sierra Madre had an orchard that was badly infested, and after awhile it began to improve until the trees became clean and the fruit excellent. Other orchards in the vicinity showed signs of improvement, and I began to look for the cause, when close observation showed this little fellow at work. Prof. Coquillette had also discovered it and a study of its habits has shown it to be the natural remedy, and I believe the only remedy, for the destructive yellow scale."

"Why," continued Mr. Crow, becoming enthusiastic, "that minute speck is worth untold millions to this state."

ROMANCE IN COURT.
Story of a Man Who Won in a Lottery but Lost a Bride.

A romantic story was revealed in a Boston court the other day in a contest over the $500,000 estate of the late Samuel Welch, who lived in so many places that the probate judge doesn't know where to locate his legal residence. For years a fine-looking brick house on Elm street, Somerville, has remained untenanted, its windows and doors heavily barred against entrance by anyone except the possessor of the key. All sorts of ghost stories have been conjured up about this house, and everybody who lived in the neighborhood was convinced that the house was haunted. It had that reputation, anyway, and timid women and children always went a block out of their way to avoid passing it at night. The ghost stories vanished in the light of to-day's revelations. That house was built by Mr. Welch years ago with the proceeds of a lottery prize which he had drawn. He was engaged to be married to an estimable young woman, and the wedding day had been appointed. When the intended bride heard that the foundation of his wealth had been laid through a lottery investment she refused to marry him. Mr. Welch immediately barred up the house, which had just been completed, and would never give his consent to its being occupied. He then led a roving life in Massachusetts and New Hampshire, where he passed the greater part of his time. Mayor Pope, of Somerville, was to-day appointed administrator of the estate, which he will distribute among a large number of heirs.

Tragedy at Wounded Knee.
"One of the results of the fight struck me as being peculiarly horrible," writes an eye-witness of the combat. "The battle was about over—only an occasional shot being fired away in the distance—when two women, one old, the other young, appeared on the field from some place of concealment and began looking at the bodies of the dead of their race. They would have been shot had it not been for the interference of an officer—Lieut. Sickles. As rapidly as possible they moved from corpse to corpse (the wounded were few and far between) and then they went to the bodies of the dead. The old woman, mother of the younger, was bending over her husband when the daughter deliberately approached from behind, covered her mother's eyes with her left hand and then cut the maternal throat with a keen knife she had in her right. Before any of the spectators could say or do a thing the girl threw off her bright plaid shawl, shook back her long hair, and with the bloody blade severed her own jugular vein."

Infant Violinists.
There are hundreds of little Boston girls, from five to nine years old, learning to play the violin. They are almost entirely the children of well-to-do parents, who desire their daughters to have an accomplishment something out of the ordinary. These little ones, of course, cannot handle an ordinary violin at first, and begin their lessons on a miniature affair. Usually they know nothing of music when they begin, and have to learn that and the technique of the instrument together. Girls make better violinists than boys, and the violin seems to me essentially a feminine instrument.

THE CHARM OF MUSIC.
One Case in Which It Soothed Two Savage Breasts.
Husband and wife had been quarreling, says a Columbus paper. The trouble began in the house, but the belligerents had reached the sidewalk, where hostilities were resumed. She would not live with him another hour. He retorted that it didn't make any difference, the quicker the separation came the better it would be for both.

The husband, raising his voice to a high pitch, said:
"This ends all relations between us."
"Go," said the wife, "I do not care now, for our home is only in name."

Suddenly there burst upon the night the strains of "Home, Sweet Home." It was the music of an orchestra that had just then begun a serenade to a resident near by. It seems that the company of musicians had been inspired, for the piece was never rendered any better than it was that night.

The husband and wife ceased quarreling, and both stood as if rooted to the spot. The effect upon them could be seen in their faces. Both were weeping. There was a brief but terrible struggle between duty and pride.

The husband glanced at the wife in a pitiful sort of way, and his look was returned. As the strains of the great song were dying away, they rushed into each other's arms. The love of former years was then and there renewed.

Good Old Times.
It is not generally known that Henry VIII., of England, hanged no fewer than seventy-two thousand robbers, thieves and vagabonds and that "Good Queen Bess" was in the latter part of her reign, responsible for the slaughter of three or four hundred criminals yearly. Turning to the year 1596 for example, we find that in the county of Somerset alone forty persons were executed, thirty-five burned in the hand and thirty-seven severely whipped.

The Coolie's Endurance.
The power of endurance of the Chinese coolie is marvelous. A missionary from China tells of an instance that came under his own observation of men voluntarily traveling forty-six miles before breakfast, bearing a heavy load most of the time. In another case he met with some men who, after having gone twenty-seven hours without food and having carried a heavy burden in the meantime, yet had still strength enough left to carry a man fifteen miles farther."
